LEXINGTON, July 5.

By late accounts from Philadelphia, the President of the United States is now on the recovery from a fit of sickness, by which his valuable life had for some time been despaired of.

The United States, in Congress, have agreed to raise an additional force of 10 companies, to be stationed in the territories of the Union, South West of the Ohio, and on the frontiers of Georgia with the Creek and with the Spaniards of East Florida, and one battalion for the defence of Kentucky. The pay of the officers of all the troops of this Union is to be much lowered.

The Emperor of Germany is certainly dead, by poison, (as it is supposed) which the Male Content ecclesiastics have infused into the candles which were used in his private chamber, by whose light, his eyes and brain had been infected. And the Emperors of Russia was said to have been given over by her physicians. Francis is still progressing slowly, but fearfully, and the works of civil and religious information, unitedly with the monarch, and the conclusion in the Austrian Netherlands still wear the aspect of danger, as to its prosperous termination.
